GOOD ROADS ON EAST COAST.

A. S. Mann returns from the Scene of the Automobile Meet—Resolutions Are Adopted at Rockledge.

The following is a part of a letter from Col. A. S. Mann to the Times-Union and seems of sufficient importance to print a part of it at least:

I have just returned from the Ormond-Daytona races and a trip down the east coast.

It is hardly possible to convey a proper impression as to the growth of automobile. It is well understood now that the Ormond-Daytona beach race course is much the fastest and safest in the world. All previous records were broken, and where the machines simply flew, the safety of the course was established in there not having been the slightest trouble or accident while racing, covering nine days and all distances from one to one hundred miles.

Racing is here to stay, but danger being so great a feature in racing on all other beach courses, must make Florida's superior ocean beach course a great favorite.

The world today realizes the advantages offered as to safety and speed, and only needs to know that the management will be the best that money can secure.

In this connection, it will give some idea of the importance at present attained by this race meet to point out the difference this year, in comparison with last season.

The value of the machines in the races last year was placed at $50,000, including touring cars. This year at Ormond there were eighty machines, valued at $500,000, and nearly or quite as many more were at Daytona; and if private touring cars sent for use upon the beach during the races and which were shipped away the day the racing closed are counted, the value of machines coming to the state for a few days' sport may safely be placed at $1,000,000.

The hotels, boarding houses and even private houses at Daytona,

Goodall and Seabreeze were filled, and many could not get rooms at any place or price.

This is a serious question, to be met another year. I am confident that even a greater increase in attendance and importance may then be expected, and it can only be provided for in one way. All agree that a solution of a proper care for all who wish to attend lies in the opening of the East Coast hard surface road from Fernandina, via Jacksonville and St. Augustine, to Ormond and on south.

Not only would the races be held during the tourist season, but those who were stopping at any point along the line could attend the races in parties in their touring cars, and return home at night. The pleasure touring cars coming to Florida would stay here the entire season, and find great pleasure in going up and down this great highway, especially the several stretches of perfect sea beach which would make up nearly one-half of the line.

WANTED:—To Rent Automobile by the week. Address Will Lines, Goodall, or Phone 243. B9-41.

A Poem for Today

THE EXILE OF ERIN

By Thomas Campbell

HERE came to the beach a poor exile of Erin,
The dew on his thin robe was heavy and chill;
For his country he sighed, when at twilight repining,
To wander alone by the wind-beaten hill.

But the day star attracted his eye's sad devotion,
For it rose o'er his own native isle of the ocean,
Where once, in the fire of his youthful emotion,
He sang the bold anthem of Erin go bragh!

Sad is my fate! said the heart-broken stranger;
The wild deer and wolf in a covert can flee;
But I have no refuge from famine and danger,
A home and a country remain not to me.

Never again in the green sunny bower,

Where my forefathers lived, shall I spend the sweet hours,
Or cover my harp with the wild woven flowers

And strike to the numbers of Erin go bragh!

Erin, my country! though sad and forsaken,
In dreams I revisit thy sea-beaten shore;

But, alas! in a far foreign land I wander,

And sigh for the friends who can meet me no more.

Oh, cruel fate! wilt thou never replace me?

In a mansion of peace, where no perils can chase me?

Never again shall my brothers endurance meet?

They died to defend me, or Eve to destroy!

Where is my cabin door, fast by the wild wood?

Sisters and sire! did ye weep for its fall?

Where is the mother that broided my childhood?

And where is the bosom friend, dearer than all?

Oh! my sad heart! long abandoned by pleasure,

Why did it do in a fast racing career?

Tears, like the rain drop, may fall without measure,

But rapture and beauty they cannot recall.

Yet, all its sad recollections surprising,

One dying wish my lone heart can now,

Erin! an exile hegoths thee by the sea;

Land of my forefathers! land of my birth!

Buried and cold, where my heart still abomination,

Green be thy fields, sweet be thy bower,

And thy harp ringing sweetly, still with devotion

Erin, my country! Erin go bragh!

Reflections.

A birthday soliloquy.

GAIS my mind dead to me,

And my imagination is a fever,

It this part of my birthday present.

Some wobbles. Every wobbler loves,

And dabbles them as her dearest past.

Full well, I view a spangled land,

Whose looks are her best stars in robe,

Feels like demanding day and place,

When her sole fortune is her face,

And prays that Father Time would stop,

And once forget to wind his clock.

So I survey my face with care,

That goodness, there's not one gray hair,

The animal in my eyes,

My nose, is as twelve years before,

Dear me, in this long, long year,

Still let that face under the moon,

I really think it does not harm,

But adds a certain jocund charm,

And makes me look as though I knew

An interesting thing or two.

It costs, I've found, to take a look,

When learning from Experience's book!

But on the whole, I think I'll pass,

Small thanks to you, my looking glass,

For you would frankly show to me

Were I pasty, pale, or poor,

No room for grave alarm as yet,

Still, meantime, I must not forget

That temper fidgets and the wise

To snare a matrimonial prize,

A woman grows to be so sly,

Whose birthdays count up to my age;

So just as quickly as I can,

I'm going to settle on "the man,"

Then, if when next year rolls around,

Still on the family tree I'm found,

Twill be my only course, I fear,

To change my birthday to leap year!

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTION. CITY COUNCIL IN SESSION.

Little Interest Was Manifested and a Light Vote Was Pollled. Old Officers Re-Elected.

Members Sworn in But Little Routine Business is Transacted.

A. McF. Porter Absent.

In the city election yesterday, only 151 votes were polled, 8 of which were thrown out. Very little interest was manifested, most of the voters seeming to think that the re-election of all of the incumbents a foregone conclusion.

What little interest was manifested centered around the candidates for mayor. Charles L. Smith, the former mayor, had opposed to him Geo. F. Smith. The former polled 95 and the latter 46 votes.

Following is the list of other candidates, with votes polled:

J. W. Wilkinson, clerk of council, 131; C. M. Bingham, Jr., tax assessor, 135; H. F. Douglass, tax collector, 132; Frank T. Peck, treasurer, 132; A. McF. Porter, councilman for two years, 106; Geo. H. Clark, councilman two years, 92; Edw. G. Harris, councilman two years, 101; Henry Schmidt, councilman for one year, 79; all of whom were elected. Jas. M. Osborn received but 57 votes and was not elected.

By a mistake, Henry Schmidt's name was placed on the ticket for the unexpired term of Wm. Atwood, and he was so elected. Geo. H. Clark was the candidate for the unexpired term but, due to the same error, was elected for two years.

The members of the election board were: E. L. Bond, E. W. Green and Jas. Rix. C. R. Cox, clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. Mertz, with a party of six friends, guests of The Bennett, took the Tomoka trip on the Uncle Sam today.

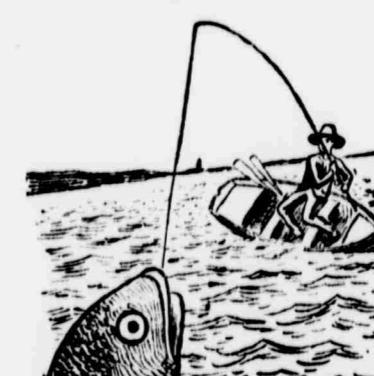

J. A. Mercier, a well known contractor of Detroit, is an enthusiastic disciple of Nimrod, went out Monday with his friend, E. C. Wright, and bagged twenty five quail. Yesterday these gentlemen brought in twenty three more quail which were served at The Ridgewood to friends of the hunters.

The moral is obvious, but allowance is made for the proverbial obtuseness of northern nations, and underneath the picture is inscribed in large letters, "The Results of Benevolence."—London Chronicle.

Get Out of the Rut.

It is never best to travel in a rut. It is wearisome. It is nerve-destroying. Wise people choose the smoother road, or if that road must be traveled they try to fill in the ruts with stones and gravel. There is such a thing as getting out of the rut, and the world would be better and happier if more of us did it.

It was my privilege, as well as pleasure, to hear young Mr. Carpenter, pastor of the Christian church in his birthday sermon to his parishioners at Daytona Beach, last Sunday, as a young man of simple, homely looks, I understand, the native son, native both in Kentucky, his native state, and Tennessee, and it is not difficult to remember me to the truth of such a statement, hearing his modesty addressed in these words:

"You are peculiarly fitted for the high calling of a minister, for you have a charming personality, a full, round, well-modulated voice, a purity of doctrine and a zeal for the cause of Christ, summing up all the requirements for a successful minister of the Gospel. He deserves to meet with a hearty support."

Two New Residents.

On the north side of Magnolia Avenue, near Beach Street, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Barnes, built a cottage, the property of J. H. Barnes, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, by Contractor Mr. D. B. Bradbury. This cottage, when completed, will be one of the best on Magnolia Avenue. There will be four rooms and bath upstairs and on the lower floor there will be a large reception hall, and a dining room, with a fireplace.

On the left abutting on the east, Mrs. C. C. Whitton, of Cedar Rapids, will build an even smaller cottage. Mrs. J. H. Barnes is a daughter of Mrs. Whitton.

Mrs. Barnes was a DAILY NEWS reporter that he expected to spend most of his time in Daytona and would probably be away not more than a couple of months each summer.

The largest euchre party of the season in Daytona and the largest ever held at The Bennett took place last night at that popular house.

The affair was held under the management of Mr. B. O. Bowers, Mr. C. B. Nevins and Mr. J. G. Steever, and was in every way a pronounced success.

The number of players was so great that the tables extended from the dining room doors, through the exchange to the end of the parlors.

An unexpected feature, and one that lent quite a charm to the affair, was that shortly before the euchre a birthday party was tendered to Miss Florence A. Pond, daughter of Judge Pond, of Minneapolis, by some of her young friends.

Y. D. Bishop, a builder of auto racing boats in New Haven, spent several days at Palm Beach, viewing the races. He has returned to The Ridgewood and says that Daytona is the only place for him.

Henry Sargent came up from Oak Hill to spend Sunday with his wife and boy.

Miss Helen Pratt, of Seabreeze, is visiting Miss Lilly Johnson.

Doctor Dubois was a professional visitor to DeLand lately.

Mr. Fair has rented his house to Mr. Grinnin.

Mr. and Mrs. Livingston and Mr. and Mrs. Morrissey and friends, of Berea, Ohio, drove down from Daytona to call on Mrs. J. C. Noks, of Cleveland, Ohio.

W. L. McDonald has had his cottage on Herbert avenue, near the depot, completely renovated and painted with the intention of occupying it.

The railroad section foreman has had the scrub off the railroad right of way which is an improvement.

The Automobile Association has shelled Ridgewood avenue as far as Dunlawton avenue.

Mr. Miller, of Charlevoix, Mich., and Mrs. McCrory of Greenville, S. C. are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter.

A company of missionaries from North Carolina arrived here last week and held several meetings. They brought their own music, in shape of organ, drums, and singing very well.

Mr. Dondinville of Verona, Ill., has bought the lot, corner of Orange street and Dunlawton avenue, of C. McDaniel.

Mr. Baker has purchased Mr. Dondinville's interest in the houses, corner of Ridgewood and Dunlawton avenues.

Mr. Baker was the lucky man at the card party last week, winning the most games.

Nearly everybody in Daytona is or has been, suffering with a cold. The foggy weather of the past week has been such as to give one a cold whether they wanted it or not. It is to be hoped that it will clear away soon.

The Pickert family commence a three days engagement at the Opera House tonight. This excellent troupe pleased Daytona audiences during their week's visit here in December and will no doubt be greeted by large houses. The company is a good one and well worth seeing.

The Southern Express Company would be conferring a great favor on its patrons, as well as increasing its business if they would establish an office in the business part of town. The express office at the depot is too far away from the business portion of town for business men to use it unless they are obliged to. Give us an office up town and we'll increase your business.

Naturalism In Acting

By SIR HENRY IRVING

In England it has been too much the custom, while demanding naturalism in art, to expect a FALSE ILLUSION in tragedy. But there is no reason why an actor should be less natural in tragic than in lighter moods. Passions vary in expression according to moods of character and manners, but their reality should not be lost even when they are expressed in the heroic forms of the drama. A very simple test is a reference to the records of old actors.

What was it in their performances that chiefly impressed their contemporaries? Very rarely the measured recitation of this or that speech, but very often a SIMPLE EXCLAMATION that deeply moved their auditors, because it was a gleam of nature in the midst of declamation. The "Prithee, undo this button!" of Garrick was remembered when many stately utterances were forgotten. In our day the contrast between artificial declamation and the accents of nature is less marked, because its delivery is MORE UNIFORMLY SIMPLE, and an actor who lapses from a natural into a false tone is sure to find that his hold upon his audience is proportionately weakened.

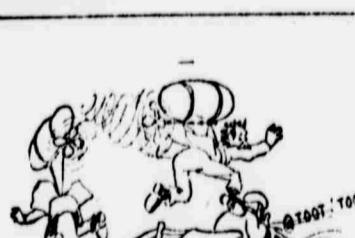

There are many causes for the growth of naturalism in dramatic art, and among them we should remember the improvement in the MECHANISM of the stage. For instance, there has been remarkable development in stage lighting. In old pictures you will observe the actors constantly standing in a line, because the oil lamps of those days gave such an indifferent illumination that everybody tried to get into what was called the focus—the "blaze of publicity" furnished by the "float," or footlights.

It would not be safe to recommend actors to allow their feelings to carry them away entirely, but I think one would be wise to avoid the theory expounded with brilliant ingenuity by Diderot that the actor never feels. When Macready played Virginius, after burying his beloved daughter, he confessed that HIS REAL EXPERIENCE gave a new force to his acting in the most pathetic situations of the play. Are we to suppose that this was a delusion, or that the sensibility of the man was a genuine aid to the actor? Bannister said of John Kemble that he was never pathetic, because he had no children.

TALMA SAYS THAT WHEN DEEPLY MOVED HE FOUND HIMSELF MAKING A RAPID AND FUGITIVE OBSERVATION ON THE ALTERATION OF HIS VOICE AND ON A CERTAIN SPASMODIC VIBRATION WHICH IT CONTRACTED IN TEARS.

It would seem to me that the actor who can thus make his feelings a part of his art has an advantage over the actor who never feels, but who makes his observation FROM THE FEELINGS OF OTHERS. It is necessary to this art that the mind should have, as it were, a double consciousness, in which all the emotions proper to the occasion may have full swing, while the actor is all the time on the alert for every detail of his method. True, it may be that his playing will be more spirited one night than another.

THE ACTOR, HOWEVER, WHO COMBINES THE ELECTRIC FORCE OF A STRONG PERSONALITY WITH A MASTERY OF THE RESOURCES OF HIS ART MUST HAVE A GREATER POWER OVER HIS AUDIENCES THAN THE PASSIONLESS ACTOR WHO GIVES THE MOST ARTISTIC SIMULATION OF THE EMOTIONS HE NEVER EXPERIENCES.

Natives of the San Bias Coast.

The natives of the San Bias coast, part of the western coast of South America, have many peculiar customs. The Indian boy after his marriage becomes the slave of his father-in-law and must submit in all things to his will until emancipated by his own daughter's marriage, when he sets up his own home and becomes thenceforth master of his son-in-law. The men are very jealous of their women, and in case of war or other grave danger their first step is to kill their wives and children. They believe dreams and insanity to be the work of evil spirits, and the dreamer upon telling his dream is killed. The insane are burned alive. They allow no foreigner to sleep in one of their villages.

When in time of strife a crowd of politicians steps in to save their party it is always safe to guess that they save it for themselves.

DAYTONA is situated upon the west bank of the Halifax River at its fairest expanse and midway between its source at Bunnell Bay and its outlet at Mosquito Inlet. It is 15 miles 29, seventy-four miles from St. Augustine and one mile from the Atlantic ocean, and is acknowledged to be without a rival for beauty among the villages of the South. Its site is one which is known as high and moist land that was covered by nature with a most royal growth of palm trees, trees, and among these trees the town of today, with its beautiful buildings and well-kept lawns and streets. The result is that all along the wide avenues that intersect the town are hardly lined with oak and hickories, many of them draped with graceful festoons of the gray Spanish moss, that overhang the street and walk, and among these are interspersed tall tropical palmettos, glossy-leaved magnolias, fragrant bay and coral-beeried holly, and many other varieties, while in many places the wild grape, the trumpet vine and the impetipet vine climb and cling among the branches forming shady bower and adding grace and beauty.

The town lies parallel with the Halifax River, and extends for nearly two miles along the shore. This river is the delight of the angler and the yachtsman and forms one of the town's greatest attractions.

The main avenues that run parallel with or intersect the river are all 100 feet wide, except Beach street, which is about sixty-five feet, but has a half mile of open, beautiful water abutting upon its eastern side, where the salt waves ebb and flow and along and across which comes the cooling, invigorating and health-giving breezes from off the wide Atlantic, which temper and render the Halifax climate one of the most perfect in the world. Daytona has many miles of well graded, paved and shelled roads and streets, rendering it the

and added to these, but a mile away, are thirty miles of smooth, hard beach, that affords an unrivaled course for long-distance cycling and driving or automobile racing. No town of equal size, North or South, numbers so many wheelmen, and cycling is a favorite pastime with the tourists summer and winter.

The Beautiful Cottages
that have been erected during the past years and are being built are rendering Daytona as famous for its fine homes as for its beautiful river, trees and avenues, and they are adding yearly to its attractions.

Not the least of these attractions is those securing homes in the South, and ranking second only to healthfulness and perfection of climate, is the fact that its population is chiefly composed of cultivated and intelligent people, accustomed to the refinements of home and social life. Added to these features are good churches, good public and private schools, stores, hotels, laundry, meat markets, novelty works, an opera house, electric lights for street and house illumination, a good telephone system, ice factory, Lily Water Works, and hot and cold baths, etc., and everything else can be procured that is necessary to make life comfortable. An important feature in the healthfulness of this town is the

Water Supply
which is derived from numerous flowing wells, of which there are probably 300 in the corporate limits. This flow is secured by boring wells to the depth of from 80 to 120 feet, passing through several strata of rock, and this depth assures purity from all surface contamination. The water is slightly impregnated with magnesia and iron, and holds sulphur in the shape of gas, which soon passes away.

The Population of Daytona is about 1,800. Added to this is a suburban population on main shore and peninsula of about 1,000 at Kingstone, Blake, Old Seabreeze or Goodall, Seabreeze and Silver Beach.
